RECORD VOTE FOR OFF-YEAR BEING POLLED

Near Perfect Weather Everywhere for Today's Election

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Clement weather beckoned millions of American voters to a test of the New Deal today after a momentous election campaign scarred at the last moment by a mass shooting of red fire paraders in a Pennsylvania mining hamlet.

An ambush at Kelayres, Pa., which killed three marchers in a Democratic procession and wounded 15 others, emphasized a tenseness prevailing in several areas as voters across the nation balloted on 466 members of Congress, 33 governors and a host of other contests.

Unusual police precautions to prevent more bloodshed were the rule as the voters poured forth in what seemed sure to be record numbers for an "off-year" election. Nearly 48,000,000 persons had registered and it was believed that 30,000,000 or perhaps more would vote before the last polling place closed at 11 P. M. Eastern Standard Time.

Passions Stirred
Besides Pennsylvania—a battleground where the political campaign has stirred passions to white heat—contending factions warned of possible disturbances or irregularities in California, New York, Delaware and other states.

"Almost perfect" weather was in the cards for the 47 states in which elections were being held. The voting was heralded as a rough, inexact, criterion of the Roosevelt administration's hold on the electorate.

Many months of campaigning ended at midnight in a burst of conflicting predictions by Democrats and Republicans. Chairman James A. Farley of the Democratic National Committee and Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the G. O. P. committee, made final appeals to voters over the radio.

G. O. P. Must Be Firm
Fletcher said: "We are going to recapture seats in the Congress, and we are going to win back control of state governments, but whether our local party and Republican workers will have to stand firm during the next two years."

Making bids for votes for the "New Deal," rather than along party lines, Farley predicted a gain of six Senate seats for the Democrats with a probable increase in House representation. He thanked "those Republicans, independents and thinking people of all sects who have been thoughtful enough to lay aside their party label in the public interest."

The most optimistic Republicans conceded that a Democratic Congress was being elected and that administration followers would fill more than half the 33 governorships at stake. But they insisted that in some contests "surprises" were in store for "New Dealers."

Count Will Answer
Only a count of the returns from contests in 31 states for 34 senatorships and in 47 states for 432 House seats will show whether the Democrats accurately predicted that they would control both branches of Congress by two-thirds majorities.

Early Returns Give Both Cause for Mild Cheers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Both Republicans and Democrats found something to cheer about in the first scattered returns from today's balloting.

New deaths, following the tragic shooting last night in Pennsylvania, cast a shadow over the first nation-wide vote on the New Deal. Two men were fatally shot and several others wounded in disorders near Holland, Mo.

Ideal weather prevailed throughout most of the country, except at the two northern corners, in the northwest and in New England. Democrats found the first encouragement in early returns when two small Massachusetts towns, normally Republican, reported Democratic gains over past years.

Republicans Counter
The Republicans quickly countered, however, with scattered victories in Michigan and Kansas.

Exile aux Barques township, in Michigan, which went Democratic two years ago, registered wide margins for Republican candidates. The first Arkansas city precinct to report gave Governor Alf M. Landon, the Republican incumbent, 16 votes to 11 for Omar D. Ketchum, the Democratic candidate.

Pennsylvania balloted under the watchful eyes of 150 men employed by the Senate campaign expenditures investigating committee, Chairman Byrnes, (D. S. C.) disclosed he had authorized their employment.

Many candidates were only waiting for the polls to close to claim election. In the House 68, including 62 Democrats had no opposition.

CONTRACT FOR RESURFACING OF STREETS IS LET

Council Awarded Job to Aurora Firm at Monday Meeting

Last evening's session of the city council was of brief duration with very little business being transacted. Commissioner John Loftus stated to the council members that he had conferred with City Attorney Martin Gannon and favored the draft of an ordinance which would provide that all contractors be required to pay their bills in full before receiving final settlement from the city. The council members favored such an ordinance and the action was referred to the city attorney. The regular bills were ordered paid.

An amendment to the ordinance governing the licensing of auctioneers within the city was passed. A bond of $500 per year is exacted with an annual license fee of $7.50. For a license of less than one year a fee of $2 per day is provided.

The application of Agnes Baggett, 1310 First street, for a soft drink license was granted. The Geneva Construction Company of Aurora was awarded the contract for the resurfacing of streets in the business section, under local improvement ordinance No. 279, which covers the First street resurfacing and No. 284 covering Galena avenue. The board of local improvements adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning.

Sheriff Summoned to Polling Place of Twelfth Today

The services of Sheriff Fred Richardson were required this morning to adjust differences at the twelfth precinct voting place, the Gateway store at the Dixon state hospital entrance. Two checkers at the precinct appealed to the sheriff stating that they had been ejected and ordered away from the polling place, one of the men stating that force had been exercised in his case.

Sheriff Richardson investigated and found that both workers carried credentials for their presence at the polling place and accompanied them to the Gateway store, where he issued a warning against any further demonstration and placed a deputy to prevent any other outbreaks. The two checkers resumed their duties.

TWO AMERICANS FACE DEATH AT HANDS OF NAZIS

Hollywood Young Music Student, Chicago Man in Prisons

BULLETIN

Washington, Nov. 6.—(AP)—A promise that two Americans held in Germany for several months without charges would be given exactly as fair treatment as if they were German citizens was made today by Ambassador Hans Luther of Germany.

He gave this assurance following a call at the state department to review the matter with Acting Secretary Phillips. The state department was disclosed yesterday as having proceeded actively to clarify the status of the two citizens, Isabel Lillian Steele of Los Angeles and Richard Roederer of Chicago, both jailed last summer for suspected espionage.

Berlin, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Miss Lillian Steele of Hollywood, Cal., spent her 88th day in grim Moabit prison today because a Nazi friend betrayed her freely-expressed confidences and opinions.

The charge against the youthful and attractive music student was described as "extremely serious," involving treason or espionage. It was so serious that "American consulate authorities perhaps cannot help her much," a reliable source said.

She is the fourth American involved recently on suspicion of espionage. Her case was made additionally grave by the government's recent warning that the death penalty is enforceable for spying.

Man Held Four Months

Richard Roederer, 40, a naturalized American citizen who came to Germany from Chicago, has been held for more than four months in a Bavarian prison. It is reported unofficially that treason charges may be filed against him because of material found in his notebooks. Roederer is a school teacher.

Miss Helen Lyster of New Rochelle, N. Y., and G. Griffith Johnson, Jr., of Washington, reported last week secret police had arrested them for several hours on suspicion of espionage. Miss Lyster had a camera at the Munich airport where she and Johnson were watching storm troop maneuvers. The two said they were released after several hours of imprisonment.

Woman Was Betrayed

The American consulate has redoubled its efforts to secure Miss Steele's release, or at least learn the basis of the accusations against her.

A reliable source said Miss Steele became associated with an Italian man, to whom she expressed freely her ideas of the Nazi regime. This man told what she related to him to a superior. This, and her actions, such as an inquiry into two delicate matters—and her acquaintance with persons the Nazi apparently considered questionable, meant her arrest.

Moabit, where she is held, is Berlin's largest prison, holding prisoners during their examination. Miss Steele is a native of Canada but a naturalized citizen of the United States.

EASTERN C. C. C. WORKERS REBEL OVER TRANSFER

Beat and Imprison U. S. Army Officers: Finally Quelled

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty Civilian Conservation Corps workers were rebuked south today despite their rebellion against a wholesale transfer from Maine to Virginia and Maryland camps.

The youths belabored their officers, locked them in the baggage car and thwarted all attempts to move the 12-car troop train for three hours last night before they were quieted and the trip was resumed.

A riot call brought 150 policemen to the yards of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad. The arrival of police sobered the demonstrators, and the army officers, several of whom the train conductor said were beaten badly, asserted they could take care of any further trouble.

Worcester police were informed that discontent over the transfer had been brewing since the train left Maine, and that some of the men had been drinking. The train, with about a dozen windows kicked out, departed finally at 12:20 A. M. for New Haven, Conn., with the army officers freed and in control. The workers are bound for Fort Hoyle, Maryland, and Ben Hur, Virginia.

MANY PAID LAST TRIBUTE TO F. D. STEPHAN MONDAY

One of Dixon Leader Laid to Rest With Masonic Rites

The funeral of Frank D. Stephan was conducted from the residence yesterday afternoon and a large number of friends and associates gathered to pay their last tribute to one of Dixon's most active and best loved citizens. Large delegations of members of the several Masonic bodies, the Elks lodge and civic organizations in which he had been an active member, were present and many places of business closed during the hour of the funeral. The floral tributes, which were many in number, bespoke the high esteem in which he was held.

Rev. J. Franklin Young, pastor of the Presbyterian church, conducted the service and paid a fine tribute to the deceased. Rev. Lloyd W. Walter, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, assisted in the service. At the grave at Oakwood the impressive service of Friendship lodge, No. 7, A. F. & A. M., was conducted by the officers. An escort of members of Dixon Commandery, No. 21, Knights Templar, marched from the home to the grave, accompanying the remains to the final resting place. Members of Dixon lodge of Elks also attended in a body.

Largely Attended
Active pall bearers were business men and close associates of the deceased and were: Edward Valle, Robert Bracken, L. E. Jacobsen, Allen Buckaloo, C. A. Mellett and George Nett. The honorary pall bearers were officers of the Dixon Loan & Building Association of which Mr. Stephan had been secretary for several years previous to his final illness: Charles E. Miller, A. P. Armstrong, Ed Newman, Dr. Warren G. Murray, Amos Bosworth and Sherwood Dixon.

The service was one of the most largely attended here in years and many were present from out of town. These included several of the heads of departments of the J. I. Case Company of Rockford and Mrs. Lookinland and sons Charles and George.

Kingfish Has New Plan: Wants State Union With Mexico

New Orleans, Nov. 6.—(AP)— Huey Long today declared he wants the state of Louisiana to secede from the union.

"The only way for us to get out of this here depression," said the "Kingfish," is to secede from the United States—sever all connections and make a clean start.

"I think we ought to have some kind of agreement with the government to let us get out altogether—a friendly agreement, or if necessary, some other kind of agreement, so we could be independent or join up with Mexico or something."

"We ain't goin' to get any place until we get rid of all these dam bureaucrats, hobocrats and all those other 'brats' up there (in Washington)."

DESTROYERS IN COLLISION DURING NAVY GAMES

Naval Plane is Also Lost as Fleet Goes Back to Pacific

Los Angeles, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Two damaged destroyers and a lost naval airplane today marked the maneuvers of the United States fleet on its return from the Atlantic coast.

Steaming out in a simulated night attack with 26 other destroyers on the main body of the fleet, the fighting craft Ells and McFarland collided last night, 200 miles off Magdalena Bay on the Mexican coast. Most of the attacking destroyers were running without lights.

The most seriously damaged of the two was the McFarland which reported water rising in the fire-room. A forward hull puncture appeared to be the only damage to the Ells.

No serious injuries to members of the crews were reported.

Both destroyers were taken in tow by tenders which are bringing them to San Diego for repairs. The airplane of Lieut. Commander Thomas P. Jeter, noted navy speed flier, was lost yesterday, but the pilot escaped injury when the craft was forced into the water after three planes brushed wings in midair. Pilots of the other two planes involved in the mishap, Lieut. Robert Goldthwaite and Lieut. Charles L. Westhofer, succeeded in landing their ships on the airplane carrier Lexington.

Sterling Girl Has Portrait Painted by Charles Engel

Chicago, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Miss Harriet Robinson of Sterling, Ill., whose back was acclaimed by the Illinois Chiropractic Association as the most perfect in the state, now has an oil painting of herself and her perfection.

He heard a noise in the basement of his home. The noise turned out to be a fellow wearing a helmet and carrying a handful of wires.

Shots Fired Into Parade In Mining Village Killed Three; Two Negroes Slain

Whites Kill Missouri Negroes to Prevent Their Voting

Holland, Mo., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Two men were shot to death, two were critically wounded and several negroes were beaten in election day disorders in this vicinity today.

The disorders supposedly were prompted by attempts of negroes to vote. Race feeling has flared elsewhere in southeast Missouri in recent weeks.

Horace Ferrell, 33, a white man, and an unidentified negro were slain, and Clarence Posey, identified as a well-to-do white farmer, were critically wounded.

The Ferrells and Posey were reported fired upon as they were bringing negroes into town to vote. Posey was taken to a hospital at Blytheville, Ark., and the elder Ferrell also was taken to a hospital.

Stop Negro Votes
Local officers said the Ferrells were near the Holland school, with two negroes in their automobile, when a car containing several men pulled up and commenced firing. Horace Ferrell slumped over dead, his father critically wounded.

A short time later a car containing apparently the same group of men accosted Posey near the Crescent night club, just outside of Holland, and started firing. Details of how the negro was killed were not learned at once.

It was reported here that the gunmen, apparently determined to prevent negroes from voting, had stopped a car driven by a white woman and containing several negroes she was taking to the polls, and beat the negroes. The woman was not molested.

N. M. MILITIA OUT
Santa Fe, N. M., Nov. 6.—(AP)—New Mexico ballots were cast under the shadow of bayonets today as voters selected two senators, a congressman and complete state and county tickets.

Gov. A. W. Hockenbush, at his home in Clovis, denied he had ordered the National Guard mobilized, but said later he had told Brig. Gen. Osborne C. Wood, Adjutant General to take a few observers to Las Vegas if Wood thought it necessary.

Actually armed and uniformed National Guardsmen were on duty in Las Vegas, San Miguel county, in Los Lunas in Valencia county, a detachment was en route to El Rito in Rio Arriba county and guardsmen were on duty at Santa Fe.

Utmost Secrecy
Utmost secrecy surrounded the guards' movements. No official could be reached who would comment. Some said they knew nothing of the mobilization, others said they had just been ordered on duty.

General Wood was in Las Vegas, having gone there yesterday afternoon with some 40 guardsmen from Albuquerque. A Democratic rally at the army in Albuquerque was followed by mobilization of the guard there.

The secretary of state's office had no proclamation from the governor.

Election Day Mystery in Chicago Half Solved by Democrat Seeking State Senatorship; Wants More Info.
Chicago, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Here's an election day mystery half solved. Someone else will have to finish it. State Rep. William J. Connors, Democratic committeeman in the turbulent 42nd ward, is running for state senator.

I'm a good Democrat and we're going to find out about this," said Connors.

BULLETIN

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Andrew Kintishon, 53, died today, the fourth victim of gunfire which raked a political parade in Kelayres last night. Fourteen were wounded by the crossfire of bullets.

Kentichon, who lived in Loft, another Schuylkill county village, was caught in the hail of lead and about a score of the bullets punctured him.

His brother, John, of Allentown, submitted to a blood transfusion in a futile effort to save his life.

Hazleton, Pa., Nov. 6.—(AP)—The echo of gun fire that swept Democratic paraders last night, killing three and wounding 15, rang in the ears of Kelayres voters as, tense and fearful of further violence, they balloted today.

The Republican leader of the little mountain village five miles south of here is held with 13 others as state and federal authorities await an investigation of what Governor Pinchot described today as "an unspeakable outrage."

Cries of "kill them" came from the throats of citizens who surged about state police as the Republican leader, Joseph Bruno, and members of his family were arrested. Threats of dynamiting the Bruno home were muttered.

The shooting, described as a raking crossfire, occurred as men, women and children, under banners of the Democratic party, paraded down the main street.

Between Two Fires
The fire was opened as the paraders reached a point in front of the Bruno home. Police were told the shots were fired from the Bruno home and from the home of Bruno's nephew, Paul, across the street.

Those killed were: Frank Florilla, 65 of Kelayres; John Golosky, 28, of McAdoo and William Forte, 35 of McAdoo Heights. Two of the 15 persons who were wounded are near death. One of the latter, Andrew Kintishon, 26 of Loft, was struck by a score or more of bullets, doctors said.

The weapons used in the "cold blooded murder," as state Democratic Chairman David Lawrence called it, were found early today, disposing of the belief widely expressed by paraders that machine guns had been used by the killers. Lieut. Edward Griffith, in charge of the state police investigation, said four shotguns, two high powered rifles, four automatic pistols and two revolvers had been found at Joseph Bruno's home, and that one high powered rifle had been

Due to prevailing unusual conditions it is impractical for the Board of Milk Producers to announce in advance the price it will pay for fluid milk direct retail.

Therefore, until further notice, the price for fluid milk will not be delivered and accepted. The price will be published within five (5) days after the period for which the company will have heretofore announced until after said milk is delivered.

The price for milk delivered in the last 15 days of October is $141 per cwt for 4 per cent milk delivered and accepted.

the street, where Paul Bruno lives. Joseph insisted he had just left the Republican organization headquarters, next door to his home, for the day, and had gone home with some of his co-workers to draw up watches' papers for party workers from the Lofly district.

Says House Was Stoned

He said his family was seated with him in one room when the parade was being coming down the street from the other end of town. Some stones struck his property as the head of the parade passed, he added, and then some shots rang out, followed by the crash of stones through his front windows. He said he did not know whether anyone in his house had fired.

Bruno, a county detective, has been leader of the Republicans of Klein township for years.

Last November the Democrats won control of the town by a 100 vote margin on the face of the official returns. A court recount reversed the decision, and gave the election to the Republicans.

The fight was taken into the courts, and is still there, but the tempers of the Klein township men have been cooled by dropping it there. They carried it into the schools as the fall term opened this year.

Carried Into Schools

Each faction named its own set of teachers, and each was determined to have their teachers in charge of the children. Street battles ensued, hair was pulled, eyes were blackened, and bricks were thrown until state police intervened.

By the time a truce was patched up, the school building was partly wrecked and school opened delayed.

The federal investigators were sent from Washington to make their own inquiry into the situation after Lawrence called on Attorney General Homer S. Cummings to take control of both votes and voters' from "desperate attempts to steal today's elections."

Pittsburgh, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Fighting broke out at the O'Hara school plying place in a tenement district today and two men were taken to a hospital before police arrived and arrested four men for causing the disturbance. Mrs. Sophie Welter, a Republican watcher, charged she was being insulted by a voter, and several men ejected the man from the polling place.

The man returned with a crank handle and the fighting started. As the injured were being taken away, Mayor William N. McNear drove up with his motorcycle chauffeur and saw order restored.

At nearby Homestead an entire election board was ordered arrested after a voter said he had been "thrown out."

Police were sent to the first district in Braddock after county officials charged voters were being intimidated. Later, the Burgess of Braddock appeared in court and accused police of "high handed methods." The Burgess was instructed to make out information against those he accused.

Japan Plans Super-Battleships Unless All Demands are Met

London, Nov. 6.—(AP)—If Japan does not get naval parity with the United States and Great Britain, it was learned today, she plans to construct a number of warships of an entirely new type.

Secret plans call for a new ship so powerful that some of the present categories for world fleets as outlined by the Washington and London treaties might be made useless, it was said.

The vessel, understood to resemble an advance model pocket battleship, will be built only if a new treaty, involving Japan's program for parity, is approved by London and Washington.

As conversations continued today the Japanese have emphasized that they will not modify their program and that a compromise proposal must come from the British or the Americans.

TAKE RICHETTI BACK TO TRIAL AT LISBON, O.

Associate of Floyd Indicted for Part in K. C. Killing

Kansas City, Nov. 6.—(AP)—Adam Richetti, associate of the late Charles (Pretty Boy) Floyd, was under a federal grand jury indictment today on a charge of conspiracy to obstruct justice in the Union Station slayings here in June, 1933.

Brought here from Ohio, where he was arrested, Richetti testified an hour before the jury last night, after which the jury returned a true bill containing three counts, each punishable by a two-year prison sentence and a fine of $10,000.

The indictment asserted Richetti with Floyd and Vene Miller, also dead, conspired to liberate Frank Nash, a train robber, being taken to prison. Four officers and Nash were killed in the attempt to carry out the plot.

A few hours after he had testified, Richetti was on the way back to Lisbon, O., where he faces a charge of assault with attempt to kill.

Golden Voice of Hildegard LaSelle Thrilled Large Audience Last Evening

Last evening the Methodist church was filled with a large and most appreciative audience at the concert given by Miss Hildegard LaSelle, dramatic soprano, who was accompanied by Miss Alma Graye Miller, an artist of great talent.

The proceeds of the entertainment are to be devoted toward the furtherance of good music in this city, Miss LaSelle donating her talent toward this end.

Miss LaSelle is a woman of much personal beauty, great charm and graciousness of manner, and possesses a liquid, golden voice, which was displayed to excellent advantage in the varied and delightful program which she sang. Schubert, Strauss, Debussy, etc., etc., are among her favorite composers. She sings these compositions with as much ease as she does the simplest lullabye. Her diction is perfect and as she sang the beautiful old number by Henry Purcell, in the first group one could close their eyes and be transported to heights and thought beyond the emotions of the every day world. Her singing opened new vistas of beauty and delight. She was heartily encored time and again. Miss Miller, the gifted accompanist, received her share of the entire approbation of the audience, also.

Following is the program which they gave:

1. CHE Maccedone guella fiamma
Benedetto Marcello (1695)
2. Bois Epais J. B. Lully (1633)
3. Come, Lovely Phyllis
Henry Lawes (1595)
4. Cease, O My Sad Soul
Henry Purcell (1658)
5. Wohin Franz Schubert
6. Der Doppelgänger Franz Schubert
7. Gretchen am Spinn Rad Franz Schubert
8. Who is Sylvia? Franz Schubert
9. Alerseelen Richard Strauss
10. Zueignung Richard Strauss
11. Aria: "UL Ben di vedremo" Puccini
12. La Procession Cesar Franck
13. Carnival Foudrain
14. La Cheve Lure Claude Debussy
15. Les Chevaux de Claude Debussy
16. When I Bring To You Colored Toys John Alden Carpenter
17. The Messenger Frank LaForge
18. Annie Laurie

Date Pie
2 cups stoned and coarsely chopped dates
2 tablespoons sugar
1 egg
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon flour
1-2 teaspoon salt
1-2 teaspoon vanilla
Pour boiling water over dates. Drain and dip in cold water and remove stones if necessary. Chop coarsely and stew in a very little water until soft. Mix and sift flour, sugar and salt and add to stewed dates. Stir well and add well beaten egg. Mix and add milk and vanilla. Turn into a deep pie dish lined with plain pastry. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about forty minutes. When firm to the touch the pie is done. Serve cold with a topping of whipped cream.

A very simple pie filling is made by cooking 1-2 pound dates with 1 cup water until the mixture thickens. Turn into a baked pie shell and cover with 1 cup cream whipped until firm and sweetened with 2 tablespoons powdered sugar and flavored with a few drops of vanilla.

Either of these desserts should follow a meal which is lacking in calories. They make excellent luncheon desserts because of their high calorie content.

Inspiring Meeting Of D. A. R. Saturday At E. J. Brown Home

Mrs. E. J. Brown, assisted by Mesdames Rathbun, Baum, Sproul, Klingman and Warner, delightfully entertained the members and guests of the Dixon chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution on Saturday Nov. third.

There was a short business meeting. Mrs. Dodge read a most fitting tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Barlow.

Mrs. Sproul kindly consented to re-read her paper on the Martha Berry Schools, for the benefit of those who were not present at the October meeting.

Mrs. Zimmerman, state chairman of Patriotic Education, was a guest of the club and gave a most stimulating, patriotic address. She stressed the need of educating and keeping before the youth of today the significance and full meaning of the American flag and the Constitution of the United States of America. She called attention to the seriousness of Communist activities that are subtly undermining many of the principles and minds of the younger generation and urged that suitable patriotic books be placed in libraries and schools and that they be accessible at all times. In closing she repeated "Fine feelings are of value only, as they are the motive power for fine deeds."

During the social hour which followed the fancy work exhibit sent from the Crossmore school was much admired and several purchases were made.

A birthday meeting honoring the President General, will be held in December at the home of Mrs. Marietta Price.

NIGHT VAUDEVILLE

THE stars are in the balcony. The vaudeville of night begins upon a meadow that moon limbs white.

A strip of silvery water. That dances into curls. A willow combing ripples from her long wet curls.

A cricket's quick staccato. A katydid attune. And now a lyric mocking bird with sonnets to the moon—

Oh, the music and the magic. Till the mist of morning foam. Till the dawn turns on the day. Light and the stars go home!

Dynamic Wife Plays Big Part In Brook's Life

(By VIRGINIA GARDNER)
(Of The Tribune.)

Mrs. Gertrude Brooks, red haired and attractive 32 year old wife of C. Wayland Brooks, candidate on the Republican ticket for congressman-at-large, will await election returns today with more than a wife's interest. Hers will be the interest of a collaborator, albeit one who has stayed distinctly in the background, where, she is firmly convinced, wives of men in politics should remain.

It was the original idea of this dynamic young woman, not Brooks, that he should study law, she revealed in an interview in their home at 7614 Eastlake Terrace. That was two years after their marriage in 1920. He did not want to study law—but she won and he did. Since that time he has written comparatively few speeches that she did not hear at least in part, and usually she advised him on the content.

With the Brookses it is "Us". Mrs. Brooks almost never alludes to "him" or to "me" in talking of her husband. Her praise is "us". They were married in her home town of St. Joseph, Mo., after Mr. Brooks was discharged from the Great Lakes hospital following the war. He had enlisted in the marine corps when he was 18 years old and while he was a first year seminary student at the University of Illinois. They met in Chicago when he was on a week-end furlough from the hospital after the war and she was studying voice here.

"We didn't even have a job when we were married," she said. "I was 18 years old and he was 23. We went blithely out to a town of 80 persons, Scotland, S. D., and he went in the garage business with an uncle. We expected to live and die there."

He was given charge of near east relief work in the state, raising funds for Armenian children. He got a hearing before both houses in the capital and his speech led me to the definite realization that he possessed unusual ability as a speaker. He went from there to Denver after he was made director of the near east relief work for Colorado and Wyoming.

"It was at that time I made up my mind he should study law. I learned the government would pay for the education of any service man and I insisted that he go back to school. In eight months he had raised his $100,000 near east relief quota for the two states, and we packed our trunk, our sole possession, and returned to Illinois."

Stars Study, and Wife Helps
The state university authorities made an exception in Brooks' case and he was given enough credits to enter the law school, providing he remained on the honor roll for the four year course. His wife matriculated at the university in 1924, a month allowed by the government did not enable them to manage, and they obtained a transfer to Northwestern University. Mrs. Brooks then obtained her first job selling dresses in a State street shop, and they pooled their funds, she said.

"In 1924, when we were expecting a baby, we started housekeeping," she said. "That year he entered politics largely by accident in making a few political speeches for Arthur Luden, who was a candidate for Mayor. He became precinct captain of the 49th ward. Meanwhile, he continued his study and stayed on the honor roll."

"Those were difficult years, full of hardship, in which there was nothing for us but work and trying to stretch a dollar an impossibly long way. I was not used to it, but I could do it. I wouldn't give anything in the world for having had those struggles now," Mrs. Brooks said.

Prizes were won at the bridge tables by Mrs. Haley, first; Mrs. Smith, second; Lee Eastman won the first prize for gentlemen. At the 500 tables the prizes were won by Mrs. Frank Spiller, first and Mrs. Dan Strub, second. For gentlemen, Clarence Strub, first and Dan Strub, second.

For bunco, Mrs. Anna Alschlager won first, and Mrs. Elizabeth Maxwell won second.

DEFEATING DEPRESSION IS COMPLICATED TASK

Getting Bill Smith through the depression does more than any other single government undertaking to reveal the astounding and perplexing contradictions involved in our effort to get back to good times.

Bill Smith, let us say, is an Arkansas cotton grower; a tenant farmer who has always rented his land. Last year the depression got him right down to the bottom of the barrel. He couldn't rent his farm any more and he couldn't get a job.

He had a wife and five children. The sum total of his worldly goods was a flock of 17 chickens.

Like others in such circumstances, he went on relief. The other day, his family was one of a number of families established on a tract of 16,500 acres of government land in northeast Arkansas.

There was a house all ready for Bill Smith; a nice, attractive little cottage, with electric lights, running water, and so on. Back of it and the other houses stretched the 16,500 acres of government land, all grown up with trees.

The scheme is this: Thirty acres are allotted to Bill Smith. He will clear them this winter, the relief administration furnishing him with anything he lacks. Some of this he will pay for with his labor, helping to grade the roads, build a community house, erect bridges, etc.

He spent the summer on a tract the government rented for him, and raised enough foodstuffs to live on all winter until he gets his new land cleared and planted.

He also earned enough to buy a mule, a cow, some more chickens, and a few other things he needed.

Now consider what is being done here.

A very worthy end is being attained. Bill Smith, together with hundreds like him, is being made self-supporting. He is regaining his hope and happiness.

There may be some victims of the depression who would like to see our government torn down and replaced by some ism or other, but he isn't one of them.

But look at the contradictions. At a time when the government pays men to reduce cotton production, here is new land being put into the growing of cotton. Marginal farm land is being retired—and here is a new stretch being opened. Forest conservation is being stressed—and here a forest is being cut down.

What's the answer? Heaven only knows. It is contradictory and illogical—and we can't help doing it.

We must get Bill Smith through the depression—even if, by doing so, we raise questions for which we have not the shadow of an answer.

CAUSE OF SEA DISASTER

An excellent follow-up on such sea disasters as the burning of the Morro Castle is to be found in a survey made recently by government marine experts and submitted to the National Labor Relations Board.

The agents who made this survey find that American steamship lines are consistently underpaying and overworking their crews. The "turn-around" is so short that the men get very little time in port.

In many cases even the food—for years the big talking-point of the American merchant marine—is below standard.

Such things can have a direct connection with tragedies at sea. They make it hard for a ship to keep a seasoned crew. They keep a crew's efficiency below par.

Result—when trouble comes, the ship's company does not function as skilfully, promptly, and obediently as it should.

Any program to make sea travel safer must include some consideration of the sailor's working conditions.

FOR BETTER LEGISLATION

Senator George W. Norris has been fighting for a new governmental system in Nebraska, under which the traditional two-chamber legislature would be replaced by a single law-making body. The American Legislators' Association recently conducted an interesting little poll on the subject.

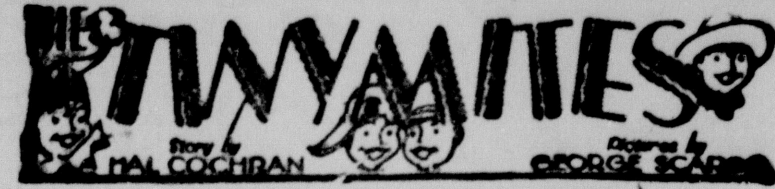

The association found that members of state legislatures—who would stand to lose their jobs if such a scheme were adopted—were against it by approximately three to one. On the other hand, professors of political science—who have no conceivable ax to grind, either way—favored it by a majority of about six to one.

The result of the poll leaves one with the feeling that the proposition might well be worth consideration by other states.

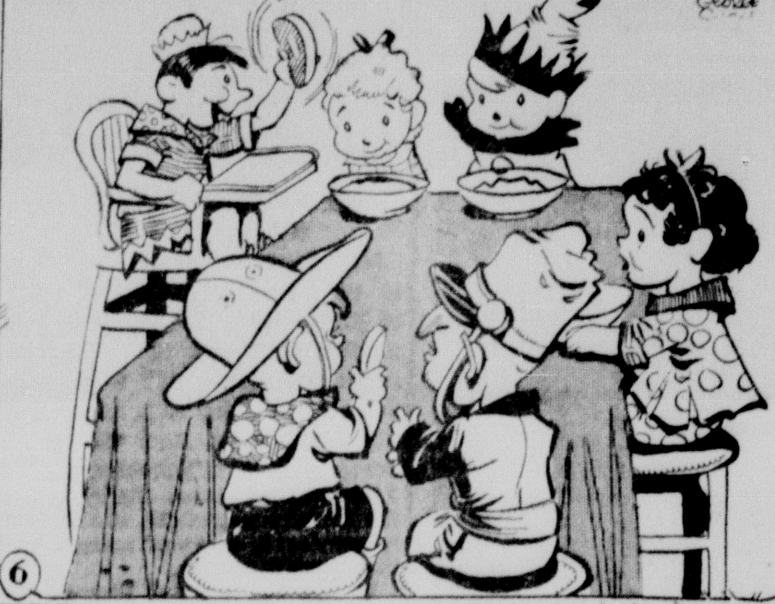

The depression would be over for the whole country very soon if American industrialists would just forget the alphabet schemes and take hold of their industries and run them with good, sound American business sense.—Henry Ford.

Isn't it funny how people back home can handle an expedition from their office?—Cap. Bob Bartlett, who accompanied Admiral Peary to the North Pole.

The little giant ran real fast and Windy shouted, "You may last a long, long time, but so will I. You may as well give in. As long as I keep near you, no sudden hiding can you do." "You haven't caught me yet," replied the giant, with a grin.

"You see, now that I am so small, I do not trust you to catch me. Why maybe you'll all spank me, 'cause I tied you to my bed." "You won't believe 'twas done in fun, so I'll continue on the run." Then up a long and winding stairs the funny fellow sped.

Wee Windy still stayed right behind. "I'm full of tricks, you'll shortly find," exclaimed the giant. Then, right down the banister he slid.

It didn't take brave Windy long to hop on, too, and slide along. "Ha, ha!" he loudly laughed, "of me you can't get rid." They went so fast they couldn't stop, and at the bottom took a flop. "Ah, now I have you," Windy cried. "You are a captured gent."

"The Times and the mystic man rushed up. Said Scouty, 'Now we can decide, for this young fellow, what shall be his punishment.'"

"Now wait," the little giant cried. "Before some of your plans are tried, let me suggest that we be friends. I'll give you all a treat."

"Well, come on, Times, follow me. I'll lead you to my dining room, where we'll find heaps to eat."

"Say, that suggestion's mighty good," cried Goldy. "I am sure I can enjoy a bit of tasty food. This fellow's fair, at least."

So, to the dining room they went, and just a little while was spent in getting things all ready. Then they had a dandy feast.

WINTER DIET AND THE SKIN

The condition of the skin in winter is affected by weather and diet. The effect of diet on the skin, as we know, is not witnessed solely during the winter months. But in winter our inclination is to eat more heavily, to consume richer foods and to partake less of fruits and vegetables.

In winter, we are largely without the stimulating effects of direct sunlight on the skin. Couple all of these conditions to the fact that we tend to exercise less in the cold months and that our clothing is heavier, and we have a combination of circumstances which favors intestinal disorders, with consequent skin manifestations.

The preventive steps to be taken are indicated in the very listing of the predisposing causes. Because of the cold it is true that we need a somewhat higher fuel (food) intake during the cold months than is required in warm weather, but this added intake should not be excessive.

A good guide on this score is one's weight. There is no particularly good reason why the normal individual should gain much weight during winter, though, it may be added parenthetically, there are many good reasons why the underweight individual should acquire a protecting thin layer of fat.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are as great a necessity during the winter months as in summer, and every effort should be made to include these in the daily diet.

Every advantage should be taken of mild weather for outdoor exercise and body exposure. If indulged in within reason, a brisk walk without an overcoat when the temperature is not too low will tone up circulation and musculature, and serve as a fine stimulant.

Frequent bathing is also of importance in winter. The heavy clothing which we wear tends to impede proper aeration of the skin. Because of this the skin excretions are not carried off, and in consequence they remain on the skin and may be responsible for irritation. Frequent washings with warm water and soap will help prevent such irritation.

Sale of Newspaper Foiled by a Blast

Elizabethtown, Ill., Nov. 6.—(AP)—Fire caused by the explosion of a gasoline heater on a linotype machine, destroyed the plant of the Elizabethtown weekly newspaper, and two nearby dwellings Monday.

W. M. Gage, former Hillsboro newspaperman and owner of the weekly was slightly injured and burned by the explosion.

Fire departments from nearby towns prevented the blaze from sweeping more nearby dwellings.

Only a small amount of insurance was carried on the plant and the publisher today was undecided whether or not to rebuild. He had intended to sell the paper next Friday.

AP MACHINERY FOR SERVICE ON VOTE READY

Over 50,000 Engaged in Reporting, Tabulating Returns

Spread across the United States today a precision machine is ready to weave a pattern of the nation's reaction at the polls for The Telegraph tonight.

It is the congressional elections "set-70" of The Associated Press. The first precinct tabulation will throw it into action. From that moment until the last vote is counted this mechanism of which the Telegraph and more than 1300 other newspaper members of The Associated Press are integral parts, will roar to a crescendo.

The AP election organization is equipped for speed and accuracy. It has a staff of 50,000 editors, reporters, correspondents, tabulators, messengers and telegraph operators. The AP system of leased wires over which the election results will be carried to readers of the Telegraph and other member newspapers would, if extended in a single circuit, reach around the world nearly ten times.

Count is Accurate
The vote count is so accurate that in past elections official returns have been found to be almost identical with the much earlier unofficial totals compiled by the Associated Press. It is so fast that almost as soon as precinct election judges complete their count the results are all over the country.

State headquarters of The Associated Press will be the central point for the tabulation of returns in each state. While a flow of figures is going out to all the member newspapers in each state, returns on contests of national interest will be transmitted over special wires to the Washington AP bureau. Veterans of the political scene will write of the congressional and gubernatorial contests from the national point of view.

Byron Price, chief of the Washington bureau, will direct a seasoned staff in accurate account of the ballots and preparation of interpretative articles and comprehensive news of what is happening to major political figures and issues.

For 20 years Price has been at the front of national and international events.

Living Our Everyday Lives

NEW FRONTIERS

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

"The frontier of England is not now the chalk cliffs of Dover, but the Rhine!" said Mr. Stanley Baldwin to a startled House of Commons. Why stop at the Rhine? Why not the Vistula or the Volga? No doubt the epigram was a diplomatic blunder, but it does face the facts and tell the truth. Old frontiers are crased; chalk-cliffs are no protection against the new weapons of war in the air. We live in a new world, and we must adapt our minds to its new conditions.

Our refusal to face facts is no small part of our confusion. There is a glaring discrepancy between high talk and low facts, a yawning gulf between what we desire and what actually exists. Either we are unable or unwilling to adjust ourselves to the realities.

We hear a lot of talk about internationalism, at a time when a narrow, bigoted nationalism runs rampant. As pacifism becomes more militant, our pace at re-arming increases. We talk peace, and think war. It makes our life a paradox, if not a contradiction.

We consider democracy a synonym for progress, yet popular government seems about to wither off the face of the globe. Our economists preach free exchange as an axiom, while tariff-walls rise higher every year. The more scientific we become, the more we consult the fortune-teller.

If we do not adjust our minds to the facts of the world we are headed for chaos. Not only in politics, in education, in religion—everywhere, in fact, old frontiers have faded. Once there were sharply drawn lines between political parties, but today they are blurred. We decline to admit the totally new alignment before our eyes.

Giant Parade Staged in Mexico's Church-State War

In the war of church and state in Mexico, a mammoth demonstration was staged in Mexico City in which 150,000 marched, to indicate popular support of the government's program of Socialist education. A section of the parade is shown at left. The National Cathedral, Mexico's largest Roman Catholic church, in the background, was closed during the parade. Above are paraders with a dead turkey dangling from a banner inscribed, "Here Comes the Archbishop of Mexico."

The issues which divided the religious sects may have had some significance in the old days. Today they do not signify at all. They have no relation to the facts and problems of our generation.

It is a swiftly changing world, and if we do not follow the flying frontier we shall be left behind talking empty talk. We must do more or talk less, so that words and deeds will more nearly agree.

OHIO STATE had one of the greatest passing pairs in the Big Ten when Hoge Workman was flipping them to Pete Stinchcomb. Wisconsin found that out in the game against the Buckeyes in 1920. The Badgers had run up a 7-0 margin after 11 minutes of play. Ohio State countered with a tally in the last quarter, but failed to kick the point after. Workman then filled the air with passes, and finally connected with one, heaving it into Slicker's arms on the 40-yard line. With 20 seconds left to go, Workman dropped back into punt formation, confusing the Badgers, and leaving the way open for his pal, Stinchcomb, to cut into the open. Hoge flipped one to Pete, and the receiver scored easily. The game ended 13-7.

WESTERN RAIL- WAYS PLAN AIR CONDITION CARS

Will Spend More Than $12,000,000 During the Summer

Chicago, Nov. 6 —(AP)—Railroads of the western territory will spend more than $12,000,000 for air conditioning to lure passengers next summer.

H. G. Taylor, chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives, announced yesterday that the roads' programs for modernizing trains are practically completed.

Taylor said that during the coming months about 1,200 cars of a full quota of 2,500 will be air conditioned. Of these about 700 cars will be Pullmans and 500 cars will be coaches owned by the railroads. The cars to be so improved include sleepers, diners, club cars, and observation cars.

Practically all western and south western railroads will participate in the general improvement, Taylor said, including the Santa Fe, Milwaukee, Northwestern, Union Pacific, Burlington, Northern Pacific, Katy, Frisco, Illinois Central and Chicago & Eastern Illinois.

Second Major Step
"The installation of this improvement," Taylor said, "is the second major step taken by the western railroads in their campaign to win passengers back to their lines. Last December they put into effect greatly reduced fares and the reception by the public has been more or less encouraging."

Two types of air conditioning, he said, would be used—ice activated and mechanical.

Taylor declined to estimate the cost but best information for 1,192 cars already reported for conditioning set the probable minimum cost at $6,000,000.

Many of the important eastern trains have been air conditioned throughout for several years.

NEWS of the CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The evangelistic campaign at the First Baptist church last night had a very good beginning. After the splendid song service in which Rev. Gronseth taught us some splendid new choruses, Dr. Farrington spoke to us in his characteristic way. He is from the Southern South and his message was a wonderful one. "The Filling of the Empty Vessels." His Scriptures were from II Kings 4 and Acts 9. It was the story of the woman whose husband had died in debt, and whose children were threatened with bondage. In her trouble and dismay, she came to Elisha. She consulted the preacher. He asked, "What hast thou in thy house?" "I have nothing," she said. "I have an athrethought, 'save a pot of oil.' There is only one who can create something out of nothing and that is God. He did it in the beginning of His creation. He alone can say 'Shall,' and it is done. I remember, said the Doctor, when I first went out shooting. I shot into the covert without any particular aim. And more by accident than design, I shot a bird and maybe hit another. My friend who was with me laughed at me but the next time I went out I aimed and only missed two shots. You will miss if you do not take aim. There is no saint absolutely possessionless. What the church needs today is knee action, as they advertise about bicycles. The one thing this poor world needed to was to obey and she did it. Her action was subject to doubt, criticism and ridicule. "What does she want with empty vessels? Hasn't she enough already?" She sent her boys out for the empty vessels, and when she got them, she shut the door and, alone with God, she poured out of her one pot of oil and God rewarded her faith at the altar. Not only was the family freed from debt and the fear of bondage but they were able to live on the overplus. So Paul was a chosen vessel whom God filled and he became the great messenger of God."

Tonight Dr. Farrington will speak on "Jehovah's Man" and Rev. Gronseth will be in charge of the song service. Children's meeting at 7:15 P. M. Prayer meeting at 7:15 P. M. Everybody welcome. Come and hear the message.

Elevating Incidents

New Yorkers became acutely aware of the importance of vertical transportation as a result of the strike of elevator operators in crowded midtown skyscrapers. Tenants were forced to climb hundreds of feet of stairs and traffic in the streets was tied up, as shown in the upper picture, when delivery trucks were unable to unload because elevators were not being operated. Below Sam Schiff (left) and Ben Silver give out with only two more flights of stairs to climb to their offices.

The Clew of the Forgotten Murder

A CARLETON KENDRAGE

©1934 NEA Service Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When CHARLES MORDEN, reporter for The Blade, is found dead DAN BLEEKER, publisher, employs SIDNEY GRIFF, famous criminologist, to solve the murder.

MORDEN had been investigating the affairs of FRANK B. CATHAY, wealthy and prominent, following the arrest of an impostor claiming to be Cathay and accompanied by a girl called MARY BRIGGS.

The day following MORDEN's death Cathay dies of poisoning. Griff learns MORDEN had visited the apartment of ALICE LORTON who has reported the disappearance of her roommate, ESTHER ORDRWAY. Griff questions Alice and instructs detectives to shadow her.

Griff and Bleeker go to the apartment occupied by KENNETH BOONE, friend of Alice's. Boone denies knowing MORDEN. Griff moves toward another door of the room and Boone threatens him with a gun.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXIX
DAN BLEEKER'S voice was strained and harsh. "Drop that gun," he said, "or I'll make a sieve out of you."

Boone hesitated. Bleeker's gun was covering him. Boone's gun was covering the criminologist. Griff was cool and smiling.

"You don't want to do that, you know, Boone," Griff said. "The place is surrounded. We took that precaution before we came up. There are two detectives downstairs. You can't possibly kill us both. You may stand some chance of beating the other murder case but you stand no chance of beating this."

The door of the closet burst open. Alice Lorton pushed her way into the room, disregarding Griff and Bleeker, running straight to Boone.

"Don't do it, Kenny," she said. "Please don't do it. Please drop the gun. I got you into this. Don't let me get you in any deeper. I'll take my medicine."

The man's extended arm slowly dropped.

"Now drop the gun," Griff said in a kindly tone.

Boone let the gun slip to the carpet.

"Now," Griff said, "let's come down to earth. Boone, you took MORDEN's body out to the place where it was found and planted it. Personally, I don't think you killed him. I think the girl killed him and you did it to protect her."

"I'm not making any statements," Boone said.

The girl started to say something. Griff silenced her with a motion of his hand.

"What's the use of lying?" he said. "You're just going to make things worse. Let me sum up the case the way it stands. MORDEN is murdered. His body is found in an abandoned subdivision. It had been taken there in an automobile and dumped. Obviously, a woman wouldn't have had the strength to carry the body to the automobile and dump it. We know something about MORDEN's movements on the day he was killed. We have absolute proof that he was in the apartment of Esther Ordrway. We locate that apartment and find a young woman there who swears that she is Alice Lorton, a roommate of this mysterious Esther Ordrway."

Griff's eyes were staring steadily and appraisingly at her lips as she talked.

Griff secured some information about the mysterious Mrs. Blanche Malone in the next installment.

Clark, was given a similar sentence last week.

The state charged the accident occurred while Gapsis was being forced to drive Clark and Brown from the scene of a crime. Clark was arrested at Cleveland, O.

PROS, CONS OF STERILIZATION
ARE DISCUSSED

Leaders of Religion
and Science Talk
Over Situation

Chicago, Nov. 6 —(AP)—Nature's own method of eliminating misfits stood in the way today of an endorsement by Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the American Medical Journal, of human sterilization.

Appearing in a symposium last night with leaders of science and religion, Dr. Fishbein said that the general evidence of the accomplishments of human sterilization "is far too slight at this time to command anything in the nature of an endorsement."

He quoted several scientific studies to indicate that sterilization is needed in some degree, but asserted that nature in her own way is prone to eliminate the misfits.

He also said it was difficult to determine whether the traits, which sterilization seeks to eliminate, are due to heredity or environment.

Dr. Louis L. Mann, rabbi, termed sterilization the only sure challenge to the rising tide of degeneracy.

Prof. A. J. Carlson of the University of Chicago said that sterilization, accomplished without degrading the individual, is the only control for hereditary factors in degeneracy.

New York, Nov. 6 —(AP)—With the military jumping teams from five nations head-lining the seven-day program, the National Horse Show will open tomorrow in Madison Square Garden with nearly every well known horse in the United States and many from Canada and across the Atlantic seeking the coveted championship awards.

Mounted on picked equine jumpers, the army officers of the United States and Canada will ride out each night in military competition. The climax will be reached Monday night when three officers from each

Judge in Bureau Co.

Kewanee, Ill. Nov. 6 —(AP)—William Clark was sentenced to 1 to 14 years in prison on a manslaughter charge Monday in Bureau Co. circuit court after confessing participation in an automobile accident March 9. Charles Gapsis, a Rock Island taxi driver, was killed in the accident.

Wesley Brown, accused with

"SHE can't make her story quite convincing enough until after she's planted a few more alibis, so she gets you, Boone, to go down to Summerville and write a letter to Esther Ordrway to which you sign the name of Robert Chelton and in which you mention Alice Lorton. She thinks the authorities will get that letter and that it may help establish her secondary identity. The weak point in her whole alibi is the bank account that is kept under the name of Esther Ordrway. She tries to clean that account out and get the checks delivered as soon as the account is closed out and balanced. It took a day or two to do that. The fact that a Saturday afternoon and a Sunday intervened enabled us to get the checks when they were ready for delivery. "That gives us all we need. We can get the bank to identify Esther Ordrway as being this young woman. We can show from her signature that she is. We can identify the letter from Summerville as having been posted by Robert Chelton. The hotel men can identify him. We can show that Kenneth Boone was in direct communication with Esther Ordrway, by the check made in his favor and his endorsement on the back of that check. "Now suppose you people act sensibly and tell us the truth. Why did you kill MORDEN, Esther?"

She made a gesture of resignation. There were, however, no tears in her eyes. She stood slim, straight and white-faced.

"I didn't kill him," she said, "but Kenny thinks I killed him."

"Aw, Esther," he muttered reproachfully.

"Don't interrupt, Kenny," she said. "You keep out of this. She turned to face the criminologist with dry-eyed defiance. "You can believe it or not," she said, "I found MORDEN in my apartment and found him dead. I don't know how he got there. I should have telephoned the police, but I lost my head and telephoned for Kenny instead. He said there was no reason why I should get mixed up in a scandal; that we could leave him there until dark and then dump the body some place."

"THAT," said the criminologist, "is all right so far as it goes. It doesn't go far enough."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean," he said, "that your reason for not telling the police isn't credible. Even Kenneth Boone, who is infatuated with you, didn't believe it. You can't expect us to believe it and you can't expect the police to believe it."

She was silent, white-lipped.

"Go on," Griff said, "tell us the truth."

She shook her head in mute, white-faced negation. "You can question me all you want to," she said, "but you won't make me change my story. That's the only reason that I did what I did. I didn't want the newspaper notoriety."

Griff's eyes were staring steadily and appraisingly at her lips as she talked.

Future Markets for Soybeans Promise to be Excellent

By DR. JOHN M. EVARD
Formerly Professor Animal Husbandry Iowa State College

The future market for the soybeans of the farmstead promises to be exceptionally good because of the many products in good demand which may be made from or are now being produced from the bean crop. The marked success of soybeans as an outstanding feed producing crop has been but one of the many potent factors which stimulated the marked increase in soybean acreage throughout the nation.

Soybean hay is now widely harvested to economic advantage in all soybean growing areas. The grazing of soybeans is not now so popular a method of harvesting as it was a couple decades ago, but even at that probably about one tenth of the acreage is still garnered as pasture, particularly in the south eastern states. The use of soybeans as a complementary crop to corn, the combination being ensiled, hogged down, or "sheeped off" is waning because the "combination corn-soybean crop" practice has not proven as profitable as once anticipated; on the other hand the harvesting of soybeans for seed has proven relatively speaking, more and more profitable
throughout the years.

Several million bushels of soybeans have been crushed for industrial and food uses in recent years.
The ready cashability of the harvested seed is a fruitful factor in the stimulation of the soybean growing interest which has resulted in a marked expansion of soybean acreage in many states of the middle west, the east, and the south.
Stewart, Burlington and associates of the University of Illinois make this pertinent statement in a recent publication. "Beginning with 1929
the absorption of soybeans by the mills has been a potent factor influencing production."

Outstanding Products
Three of the outstanding milled products secured from the soybean are: edible and industrial soybean flour for baking and cooking, and soybean oil meal for live stock and domestic animal feeding. There is a steadily increasing appreciation of these soybean products—and the demand therefore is on the "up" side.

Soybean oil has gained much in market favor in the latest decade.
The newer methods developed in late years for the processing and refining of soybean oil have resulted in a marked improvement of the oil qualities for specific purposes, whether that be in the manufacture of margarine, salad oil blends, mayonnaise, lard substitutes, candies, paints, varnishes,
enamels, linoleum, oil cloth, soaps,
printers ink or other "soybean oil carrying" products.

In speaking of the soybean in an article entitled "New Farm Industries," and appearing in Printers
Ink this latest summer of 1934, Charles Morrow Wilson, says, "In a very few years the soybean has changed from a 'fad import to a great and dependable harvest'— Paint experts are looking upon the crop as a new hope for their industry since the oil builds an untarnishing brilliance in paint colors, makes the whitest of all whites and forms an unequalled base for heavy and slow-drying paints."

Surely the soybean offers much to agriculturists and industrialists now and in the years to come. Our widely expanded soybean acreage rests on sound economical ground.

Ogle Co. Farm
Bureau Affairs

November 8th will be the last day on which farmers in Ogle county may register at the Farm Bureau Office for the sale of fodder corn, according to word received by Farm Adviser, D. E. Warren, from L. W. Plager, Chief of the AAA Forage Conservation program at Waterloo, Iowa. Those wishing to sell corn fodder through the government drought relief program will find contracts at the Farm Bureau Office which they may sign at any time before November 8th.
The price to be paid is $7.50 for

No. 1 and $7.00 for No. 2 stover, baled whole, or $8.50 for No. 1 and $8.00 for No. 2 stover, shredded fodder. For fodder containing corn the price will be the above price for the stover, plus the estimated value
of corn upon inspection.

ILLINOIS CORN
IN POSITION TO KEEP STANDING

Growers Have Chance to Win National, International Honors

Urbana Ill., Nov. 6 —(Special)—
Although the smallest in 61 years,
the Illinois corn crop is better than that in many other sections and consequently corn growers of this state have one of the best chances that they have ever had to win national and international honors,
according to J. C. Hackleman, crops extension specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

Entries for the Hay and Grain Show of the International Livestock Exposition, where these honors will be decided, close November 20 and the corn must be in Chicago by Nov. 28.

The state will make a strong bid to repeat its feat of last year when it took the "corn king" crown of the world on a ten-acre sample of yellow utility type shown by C. W.
Holmes, of Joy, Mercer county, Hackleman said. It was the first time in 15 years history of the hay and grain show that the utility type had won the world title, although it has only been within recent years that such corn has been recognized with special classes of its own at the show. Development of utility corn followed years of research work by the U. of I. College of Agriculture to control corn diseases and produce higher quality grain.

This year, although the state's corn crop is the shortest in more than half a century, it is of fairly good quality, especially in some sections of the state, Hackleman reported. On the other hand, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri and some of the states farther west which have suffered more than Illinois from the drought will be hard pressed to put up their usual strong competition at this year's hay and grain show. It was predicted.

Illinois' strongest competition is expected to come from northern Iowa and from Ohio. Growers in the latter state, especially, are out after Illinois laurels in the utility corn classes and also after the grand championship of the show.

The region around Mercer county, where Holmes, the present corn
"king" of the world lives, is one of those which has a corn crop of promising quality this year, Hack-leman reported. Other counties in that area where corn crops of fair quality are Warren, Knox, Henry, Whiteside and the eastern part of Henderson county and western Bureau county.

Some strong samples also are expected to come out of an irregular shaped area in central Illinois including parts of McLean, Macon, Menard, Logan, Tazewell, DeWitt,
Woodford and Mason counties.
The whole of southern Illinois has a crop of fair to fine quality corn, Hackleman reported.

FRANK PRIEBE'S
WEEKLY LETTER
to
POULTRY RAISERS

All the poultry you plan to sell for Thanksgiving should be sold by the end of this week.

It takes about three weeks for it to reach a city butcher shop, which means that out here in the country a "holiday market" always comes about two weeks before the holiday.

As I said a couple of weeks ago,
it would be a mistake not to sell all the birds that are ready for market.

And it would be an even bigger mistake to sell any chickens or turkeys — particularly turkeys —
that are immature and not yet
"ready for market."

The prices look attractive. I know, but you must remember that they are for No. 1 turkeys. Turkeys are all graded and very few of those raised on general farms mature this early in the season to bring the top of the market. So the price you actually get is seldom the price you see quoted and usually is disappointing.

These same turkeys, fed until Christmas time, will be fully matured and can be sold to your satisfaction.

Sell Only Mature Poultry
Perhaps you wonder what turkeys are bringing the top prices for Thanksgiving. I'll tell you:

Last week I was out in Iowa. Up in the northwest corner of the state one of the packing companies has a turkey project. There are twelve thousand turkeys on one farm. They are eighteen weeks old and are at the height of their maturity.

Probably you will find that hard to believe. I would have myself—if I hadn't seen the turkeys and seen too, how they are fed.

The feed costs $170 a day!
The birds are fully grown and fully developed. It is turkeys from this and similar farms, which make a specialty of raising them, that are bringing the attractive prices which are quoted now.

If immature birds are offered on the market at the same time, they naturally bring a lower price.
So if your birds are not fully developed, don't sell them now, but plan to have them ready for the Christmas market.

Sincerely Yours,
Frank Pribe

EGG PRODUCTION
DEPENDS MOSTLY ON CONSUMPTION

Prof. Philips Writes of Prospects for Egg
Producers

(By A. G. PHILLIPS)
Formerly Professor in Charge
Poultry Husbandry, Purdue University.

"A good ration—fed in high amounts to good birds — equals good production," stated Dr. L. E.
Card, who is in charge of Poultry Husbandry at the University of Illinois, during a recent meeting of the Indiana State Poultry Association. He further stated, "More feed per hen pays in egg yield. It does not pay to skimp feed intake. Each one per cent increase in the proportion of mash to grain equals four-tenths of an egg increase in yield. A good feeder stimulates feed consumption of his birds."

Eggs are made out of the feed and water consumed and we should not try to economize on feed for the layers during the fall months when egg prices are highest. One hundred birds will drink about five tons of water in a year and Dr.
Card states, "Water consumption should be heavy. Do not prevent this by any system of management.
Epsom salts, fed in the drinking water, reduces water consumption and may do more damage than good." The water vessel should be near the dry mash hopper and never allowed to go dry or freeze.

Hens bred for high egg production will produce more eggs from a given amount of feed than will those that do not possess the ability to lay well; and yet, the greatest consumption of the correct
ration, the more the bird can lay.
This statement can be made in another way—The more a hen lays the more it must eat.

At the meeting of the Indiana
State Poultry Association, Dr. Card made another very impressive statement: "Do not change to another ration just because it is cheap." Any feed mixture is properly measured by the efficiency of production and not by the original cost of the feed per hundred pounds. Just because one feed is cheaper in price than another does not mean that it is more economical.

PAUL SPANGLER OF FRANKLIN IS
FIRST TO ENTER

His Hereford Calf to be Shown at International Expo

Chicago — First entry from Lee county for the 1934 International Live Stock Exposition, to be held here Dec. 1 to 8, was made by a 4-H Club boy, Paul Spangler, of Franklin Grove.

He will exhibit a prize winning purebred Hereford calf, from the recent Lee county fair, in the exposition's Junior Live Stock Feeding Contest.

The forthcoming Chicago show will be the 35th anniversary of this far famed Exposition which for the past 34 years has been the close and climax of the agricultural fair season in America. Nearly every state in the Union and province of Canada will be represented in the competitions, where winners are regarded as the continental champions of the year.

On the opening day, December 1st, an elaborate dedication ceremony is planned for the new building that will house the exposition
the old quarters having been demolished in the Stock Yard fire last May. The new building—which is of fire-proof construction and includes the most modern equipment and facilities, will be the finest structure in the world devoted to such uses.

Farmers from all parts of the country are now filing their entries for the International Grain & Show, a department of the exposition and the largest crop contest in the world in which over $5,000 in prize money will be awarded.

Entries close November 20, and will be accepted free of charge.

Appeal to Populace

Paris, Nov. 5 —(AP)—A wave of popular support for Premier Gas-constitutional reform rolled across France today, indicating that stubborn deputies and Senators might be swept into line.

Socialist quarters, however, predicted that the cabinet crisis would result in greater civil strife than did the "bloodiest days of February." Those days of rioting cost 28 lives.

Doumergue started popular sentiment surging yesterday with a broad appeal in which he asked the voters to judge between him and the lawmakers who seek to block the reform. The venerable premier had untreated weeks ago
